

Lexogen Quality Policy

We offer our customers easy, robust and high-quality products and services for RNA analysis.

We develop customer-oriented solutions for optimized, fast and automatable Next Generation Sequencing workflows.

We provide our customers comprehensive know-how, personal support as well as customized services for their experimental work and data analysis.

We encourage cooperative partnerships with our distributors worldwide and actively support them with marketing and customer service.

We are an international, interdisciplinary team of professionals with diverse, complementary skills and personalities.

We value the committed, individual contribution of each team member and support them with a healthy and meaningful work environment.

We support the personal and professional development of all team members.

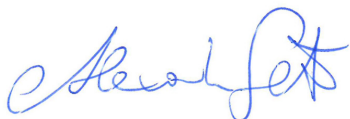

Effective collaborations through goal-oriented work processes, open communication and continuous improvement contribute to our success.

With our designated suppliers we aim to achieve long-lasting, reliable, and successful cooperations. Genuine communication and interactions are important to us.

As an innovative and resilient company, we offer sustainable growth and profit orientation to our investors and public funding bodies.

Adherence and compliance with all legal and technical requirements are a matter of course.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Alexander Seitz
